Addendum No. 2

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Q1. I was wondering if the pricing schedule and scope has changed from contracts in previous years as I was under the assumption that rates would be in units of square meters or feet. I'm trying to use awards from the last few years to gauge a fair and competitive hourly rate but they vary by such a substantial amount(awards) that I'm wondering if the process changed in that time.

Is it going to be possible to translate hours into square feet on a call up estimate or is time in and out strictly what is billed for.

A1. The scope of work has not changed at CFB Gagetown but the pricing schedule has changed from square meters to an hourly rate. This hourly rate will be or could be different for each product being applied. On the invoice it will show all hours worked on the specific job plus the materials used and the percentage mark-up. This is basically the same way most other Standing Offer's are done. Although this is a huge change in flooring, we are hoping that it will work out better.
