Bidders' Questions-03

Question-7)

With reference to Question and Answer 3 previously published, it states:

"Question-3)

Annex B Statement of Work, Paragraph 3.4.3 Safety Regulations, sub-paragraph (a). Can Canada please confirm that, if the proposed equipment was Conformité Européenne (CE) that this certification would be acceptable or would CSA certification also be required?

Answer-3)

As CE designation is a broad term, you must prove that the CE designation of the proposed equipment meets the CSA standards for safety."

If suppliers can demonstrate that offerings are compliant to mil standard certification will CANADA accept as per CSA standard for safety? If not, can CANADA provide the exact CSA standards for safety statement in order for suppliers to confirm compliancy at time of bid submission?

Answer-7)

Yes, if suppliers can demonstrate that the receiver offered is compliant to MIL-STD 461 E certification, Canada will accept that the receiver offered will be compliant.
