Solicitation Amendment 003

Questions and Answers

- Q1: Would it be possible for a firm that is specialized in environmental risk assessment and/or environmental assessment to participate in more than one proposal as sub-contractor (ie propose the same experts in two different proposals)?
- A1: It is possible that a subcontractor will work for more than one Contractor. Bids will not be deducted points for using resources that appear in other bids. However, the bidder is certifying that all listed resources will be available as required, and the Contractor will be responsible if subcontracted resources are unavailable because of other commitments.
- Q2: Specifically, are employees who are currently on maternity/parental leave eligible for inclusion in the project team?
- A2: Yes, employees who are on parental leave can be included in a proposal.
