QUESTION AND ANSWER

Q1: Pricing items are separated as daily rates (price per day), average cut rates (price per sq. m.) and volume rates (price per cmpm). Average cut rates and volumes rates are typically used as different pricing options for cost evaluation scenarios rather than parts of a total amount. Are pricing items of each production category sub-group (e.g.: 100CMPM/hr, Group A) being evaluated individually? or are all pricing items simply a means to determine the sub-group Estimated Total? In other words; are combinations of any and/or all items being evaluated to determine the most advantageous pricing scenario for Canada? or is the Estimated Total amount the true submitted price, regardless of individual (daily, sq.m., cmpm) rates provided."

A1: The total of each subgroup is used to determine the low bidder/successful bidder. The contractor and equipment are being evaluated on their ability to carry-out dredging with the different payment scenarios. PWGSC reserves the right to request the work be carried-out using one or a combination of the pay options depending on the location of dredging.
