Question 1:

Does the end user consider the Pelican-Hardigg SuperMac series of cases to be a viable alternative to the Pelican – Hardigg Glass Mat Thermoplastic (GMT) cases?

DND Response:

If the Bidder is offering an equivalent product, the bid must clearly demonstrate that the items offered are equivalent to the Pelican-Hardigg Composite or the Zero Warrior rack-mount cases in accordance with Annex C. DND cannot provide any considerations of equivalence without seeing the bid.

Question 2:

Re: Annex B. b iv; Lids / While the Pelican – Hardigg GMT cases meet and exceed all of the mandatory design and performance requirements, The Pelican – Hardigg GMT cases currently employ pressure mounted spring loaded valence spanning catches to secure the lids to the main body of the containers which ensures an air tight closure to MIL STD 810F for environmental hazards. We do not currently offer a quarter turn closure latch. Is the Pelican – Hardigg current standard pressure latch system approved as an alternative?

DND Response:

As per above, if the Bidder is offering an equivalent latch, the bid must clearly demonstrate that the latch offered is equivalent to the Pelican-Hardigg Composite or the Zero Warrior rack-mount case latches in accordance with Annex C. DND cannot pre-qualify any equivalent product without seeing the bid.
