Amendment no. 001 is raised to change the closing date and to provide the following questions and answers.

AT SOLICITATION CLOSES - DELETE: 2014-12-12 EST and INSERT: 2015-03-06 EST

AT Part 6 paragraph 4.1 Delivery Date
Delivery-Required (Desirable) – Firm quantity

DELETE: March 31, 2015

INSERT: June 26, 2015

Q1. We would like to request for the allowance of an alternate measurement method to be used in the determination of the emissivity of the camouflage material samples. The proposed method would incorporate the methodology detailed in Appendix 2 to the Specification: Surface Emissivity Measurement Procedure for Screen Camouflage (RDIMS Doc OTT_LSTL-#2929855) with a modification.

With respect to the required equipment detailed in Paragraph 4 and its sub-paragraphs, in lieu of the Heating and Mounting Plates we are proposing the use of a differential blackbody head on which the material samples would be mounted in the prescribed method. This set up would allow the calibrated blackbody head to act as both the sample mounting surface, heating plate and the reference sample.

A1. Use of a differential blackbody head in lieu of a heating plate (Appendix 2, Para 4.2) is acceptable, with the condition that if it is used, the specifications of the differential blackbody, and a compliance statement describing how the equipment used, is equivalent and fully compliant with the requirement must be provided with the bid package.

Q2: May we use a substitution color in the PAS and instead of providing a test report, the fabric supplier & bidder will provide a certificate of compliance certifying the fabric & finished cover will meet with the requirement for the PAS submission?

A2: No substitute colours will be allowed for the PAS. A certificate of compliance is only acceptable for requirements listed in Annex D, paragraph 4. c.

Q3: For independent laboratory test results would in-house laboratory tests be acceptable?

A3: There will be no change to independent laboratory testing requirements. In-house tests are only acceptable for requirements listed in Annex D, paragraph 4.b.

ALL OTHER TERMS AND CONDITIONS REMAIN THE SAME.
