This Request for Information (RFI) amendment 6 is to :

- a. change the requested feedback due date for the draft Request for Proposal (RFP) documents released in RFI Amendment 5; and
- b. clarify the purpose of the draft RFP process and Industry One-on-One meetings.

Amendment 5 Draft RFP Documents Feedback Due Dated

Canada requests that Industry submit their comments and feedback on Annex G, Annex D, and Appendix 1 to Annex D on or before March 26th 2015.

Industry One-on-One Meetings

The purpose of releasing the RFP in draft format is to seek feedback and comments from Industry. This is an opportunity for Industry to inform Canada where the draft RFP is unclear, unfair or how it can be improved prior to Canada initiating the formal RFP process.

Canada will review and consider all feedback received through the draft RFP process however questions submitted by Industry, whether through written feedback or engagement activities, may not receive a response from Canada. It is difficult for Canada to provide answers to questions until all of Industry feedback is considered and understood. After considering all feedback Canada will review the draft RFP documents and spot areas of concern or where improvements can be made. Industry would see how the documents have evolved (if at all) once released under the formal RFP process. Since the RFP is in draft format, it is important that Industry note that these documents are subject to change.

The One-on-One meetings will provide the opportunity for suppliers to further inform Canada where the draft RFP is unclear, unfair or how it can be improved, in a face-to-face setting. Canada may not be able to provide answers to questions raised during meetings for the same reasons mentioned above. If answers are provided during any of the meetings, they may be documented and released under a future RFI amendment to ensure all suppliers receive the same information.

Note that Industry is permitted to have different participants attend the Technical and ITB/VP meetings, as long as the maximum 4 participants is respected for each meeting.
