Wind Turbines

The Canadian Coast Guard operates two (2) island sites consisting of navigation aids, light towers, fog horn, equipment buildings, and a residence. The electricity currently provided to the sites is through a combination of wind and solar power, connected to a battery bank, augmented by back-up generators in case of extended down time for the wind and solar power systems.

The intent of this solicitation is to replace the existing wind turbines at each site with five (5) smaller-scale wind turbines (i.e. Overall a total of two (2) wind turbines would be replaced by ten (10) wind turbines). The replacement of the one turbine with five (5) smaller wind turbines is an effort to introduce some redundancy in the wind power generation. The five (5) turbines will be able to, at peak operating condition, supply more power than required. This will allow one or more turbines to be taken out of service without compromising the navigation aids or residential loads.
