Question # 6

Reference: Mandatory Technical Criteria No 4 (MT4).

Will DND consider the training being conducted in Europe? If yes will DND still require provision of the facility outlined in MT4 or will DND accept that students attending the course(s) will not need to carry weapons?

Answer # 6

Yes, however, keeping this within the 5 eyes community that only leaves the U.K. which to our knowledge really tightened up their rules on delivering explosive hazard/CIED courses to foreigners. I am not fluent on those rules but it basically denied the teaching of explosive ordnance/hazard destruction to those outside the U.K. If a U.K. bidder presents itself and can deliver then we would certainly look at that. With that being said we would still require provision of the facility outlined in MT4 as we still require the candidates to carry weapons. During the practice lanes the candidates require to wear all their protective gear as they would down range on mission to include their weapon systems as they need to learn to function and do the task with all their gear.
