AMENDMENT 005

THIS AMENDMENT IS RAISED TO ANSWER QUESTION FROM THE INDUSTRY

Question 1 :

A question on Tech specs for Cold Storage for W8476-165398/A Pouches for Modular Fighting Rig

We are asking where the requirement for the cold storage comes from? as there does not appear to be a mil spec that addresses this.

It seems like a rather unique requirement, with none of materials used in the construction of the pouches tested to that standard by the actual manufacturers of the fabrics and vinyl.

So if the actual manufacturers of the materials cannot certify that their products are tested to this stated requirement, how can companies who are assembling pouches made of the OEM's fabric and vinyl state that they meet this requirement of DND?

Answer 1 :

Because we are expecting a cloth that meets the MIL Standard which identifies a test temperature of -40 in the Resistance to Low Temperature test, DND agrees to remove the requirement demanding that the cloth that meets the larger temperature range identified in the storage and transportation requirement.

A bid already submitted may be amended prior to RFP closing time by sending the amended correspondence to Bid Receiving Unit, the envelope/message bearing the PWGSC file number and the most current closing date.
