This amendment 005 is raised to provide a response to a supplier enquiry. The question and response are provided as follows:

Question: What are the radios that are required to be interfaced into?

Response: The radios cannot provide enough power to allow the Active Noise Reduction to work so these headsets cannot connect directly to the radios. The headsets with dropcords will connect to the User Control Device (C-5602) or the Communication Selector Box (part number 0777906-9) both made by General Dynamics Canada.

Question: We are looking to provide an equivalent product and are wondering if we provide the pin out and flying leads for the cable that would need to connect to the headset, would the customer validate if these are acceptable? If this is not viable, can the customer provide the pin outs for the existing cable connections?

Response: YES. Existing headset is proprietary. Here is the basic configuration on the audio interface. Please note that Pin A and B are balanced Microphone Inputs.

All clauses and conditions remain unchanged.
