Questions and Answers:

Q1. "Related to the potential kitchen area, plus the Contractor staff areas (maintenance and housekeeping personnel);

a) Will the Contractor on-site staff require certain clearances, or just approval from CBSA? For example, in house kitchen staff working from a Contractor kitchen within the IHC.

Answer a) All contractor staff will require security clearances as specified within the RFP (Part 7, article 3.1, article 3.2 and article 3.3). These clearances are managed by PSPC and the CBSA. All contractor personnel will be required to enter the facility through the front entrance and be sanitized (searched) prior to entry.

b) Is a kitchen, or other contractor support areas, staff room, storage room, expected to be demised from the remainder of the IHC?

Answer b) Yes, the kitchen and other support areas are to be demised of the remainder of the IHC. It is not included as part of the requirements in the Statement of Work. The CBSA has no preference on whether or not the contractor elects to have a kitchen or other facilities on site for its contractor staff. This is a choice of the contractor in order to meet the service requirements within the Statement of Work. That said, should the contractor decide to provide on-site facilities, they must be factored in as a separate space from the space required by the CBSA and should be accessible only through controlled access points.

c) With a kitchen developed on location, would the kitchen be able to have an independent access from the outside of the IHC, for food deliveries, and to access storage areas (food storage)?

Answer c) As noted in the response above, the contractor may determine how best to structure the facility so as to provide on-site services in an area separate from the requirements of the CBSA. Independent access to this contractor space may be provided, however it should be located within a secure perimeter and have controlled access. The CBSA reserves the right, through the design phase with the contractor to determine how best to manage access to this space from a security perspective.

d) Which security considerations should be factored if this is allowed? As the front of the kitchen would lead directly in to the IHC.

Answer d) The front of the kitchen must only lead directly into the IHC security perimeter through a secure service door and into a secured area. As an example entry may be only granted through a card reader system by authorized personnel only. The CBSA reserves the right, through the design phase with the contractor to determine how best to manage access to this space from a security perspective.

e) If not, how is food going to be checked by the Security contractor personnel as it enters the facility in bulk quantities?

Answer e) The CBSA will enact procedures and policies to ensure that the safety of the facility and the detainees within is maintained at all times. As an example this could include regular inspections of goods entering the facility and regular monitoring/supervision of deliveries by security personnel. These procedures and policies will be developed in conjunction with the contractor, and will depend on the layout and business processes of the facility, at the discretion of the CBSA.

f) And through which entrances would CBSA or authority allow the travel of food products?

Answer f) Goods entering the CBSA may occur through a service entrance, as determined appropriate based on the layout of the proposed facility. The CBSA will enact procedures and policies to ensure that the safety of the facility and the detainees within is maintained at all times. Access points throughout the facility will depend entirely on the proposed layout. Through the design phase, the CBSA will identify in consultation with the contractor which entrances/doors require security access and control.

All other terms and conditions remain unchanged.
