Question 1: Some of the employee housing units have full electrical panels, and installation of the newly supplied air conditioner units cannot be completed. Are we do provide in our quote an allowance to upgrade these panels?

Answer 1: The Scope of Work calls for the supply and installation of new air conditioner units at the employee housing units. If some units require upgrades to the electrical panels and/or the supply and install of new electrical sub panels, then this must also be included in the Scope of Work, following all other details and stipulations as per the Scope document.

Question 2: The scope for KBU 216 calls for the removal and replacement of flooring from within the kitchen and bathroom of the residence, however does not specify whether or not the flooring in the stairwell to the Basement is to be included in the scope. Shall we include this flooring in our removal and replacement?

Answer 2: Yes, please include the stairwell to the Basement in the scope of flooring renovations within KBU 216, ensuring that the existing layers of flooring (and associated products) are removed, and the new flooring that is installed matches the flooring chosen for the kitchen and bathroom. Stair edge grips are also to be installed. Installation must be in strict accordance with manufacturer's instructions, including fastener type and spacing.

ALL OTHER TERMS AND CONDITIONS REMAIN THE SAME
