Amendment 001

This amendment is raised in order to publish the following questions and answers:

Question Number	Question	Answer
1	In order to prepare our response, we would like to have an idea of how many enrollment stations might be needed nation (world) wide. To provide more clarity, enrollment refers to on-boarding a new identity to get a credential. Typically there is biographic, biometric (photograph, fingerprints) and document (passport) capture to prove one's identity and enable background checks to be performed. There can also be printing stations where a card is printed/encoded for logical and physical access. Therefore, approximately how many stations would be performing these enrollment activities?	The ICAM project will not be developing enrollment stations. The enrollment of data (on-boarding) will be conducted through existing means or means developed through other projects. ICAM will be the "hub" to connect/coordinate these and provide the logic and policy.
