3. Questions and Responses:

Questions:

- 1) The Feasibility Study Terms of Reference require Class D estimates including estimated engineering investigations and studies required for detailed design, design work, and construction. What is the available budget for Engineering Design Services related to Arctic Bay and Clyde River?
- 2) TOR Section 1.3 requires the Consultant to optimize the Feasibility Study concepts to meet available budget using a design to budget approach. Considering that the successful Consultant will need to close the budget gap, what is the present differential between available construction budgets and Feasibility Study Cost Estimates?
- 3) Regarding the Legal Land Survey required by TOR Section 2.3.3, can you please provide a sketch showing the upland limit of the proposed upland lots? This will be necessary to determine the legal survey budget and which (or how many) entities administer the lands of the upland lots.
- 4) Amended TOR Section 2.3.4.4 requires a Certified Hydrographer (CH) of which the Association of Canada Land Surveyors advises that there are presently 4 (four) individuals in Canada with the CH certification. Considering that TOR Section 2.3.4.1 requires the bathymetric survey to confirm another survey (2018 data) provided by DFO, would a certified Canada Land Surveyor be acceptable in lieu of a CH?
- 5) Amended TOR Section 2.3.4.8 requires underwater sounding accuracy better than the highest accuracy required by CHS (2013) Standards for Hydrographic Surveys, Can horizontal and vertical underwater sounding accuracy requirements be replaced with those of CHS Exclusive Order hydrographic surveys?
- 6) Amended TOR Sections 2.3.4.9 and 2.3.4.10 refer to line and point spacing which CHS (2013) associates with single beam echo sounder surveys whereas Section 2.3.4.5 requires a multi-beam survey. Please clarify if multi-beam surveys are to be delivered at coarse line and point spacings specified or if complete coverage is required instead. Please advise if CHS (2013) recommended 200% coverage is required.

Responses:

- 1) The available budget for the Engineering Design Services related to Arctic Bay and Clyde River cannot be disclosed at this time.
- 2) The present differential between available construction budgets and the Feasibility Study costs estimates is approximately between 10% and 15%.
- 3) Yes, sketches showing the upland limit of the proposed upland lots are provided in this addendum.
- 4) Although a Certified Hydrographer (CH) would be preferred, yes, a certified Canada Land Surveyor would be acceptable in lieu of a CH.
- 5) No the requirements remain the same as listed in the TOR.
- 6) A multi-beam survey is required for both Clyde River and Arctic Bay that results in complete, 100% coverage of the total bathymetric survey area. The method of achieving these results is to be determined by the consultant. CHS (2013) 200% coverage is not required. In addition to the full multi-beam data, the multi-beam survey data shall be parsed and submitted in the coarse line and point spacings specified in TOR Sections 2.3.2.9 and 2.3.4.10.
