QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS:

Question 2	How long is DND planning to have that equipment in service for?
Answer 2	DND typically use these fleets for 15 years before replacement.

Question 3	In Annex B – Purchase Description – Section 3.1 c – Standard Design reads: 'The vehicle must have engineering certification available, upon request, for this application, from the original manufacturers of the major equipment, systems and assemblies.'. Please provide clarification or further details as to what type of engineering certification is expected. Is it a document/letter from the machine manufacturer stating the intended application(s) of the machine, a CSA type of approval, a Safe Operating Letter (OHS certification), or something else?
Answer 3	DND would ask for such certifications when the equipment does not seem to be sold for what it was originally designed or has been modified from its commercial version or is sold with attachments which do not seem to be compatible or seem to be used outside of their designed operating range. In most cases, a document/letter signed by a Professional Engineer recognized by the OEM would suffice.

ALL OTHER TERMS AND CONDITIONS REMAIN THE SAME.
