PA Training Program
Request for Standing Offers (RFSO)

Solicitation Amendment 001

This amendment is being raised to respond to Industry questions received.

Q1. From the 31-page main document, it doesn't look like we need to submit a detailed description of our program, we just submit the accreditation documents, budget information, and certifications document. Is that correct?

R1. Yes, that is correct that a detailed description of your program is not required. As specified in the RFSO there are three sections required to be included in the offer - technical, financial and certifications and additional information. It is up to the Offeror to determine how it presents the information in the offer. However, the mandatory technical criteria found in Attachment 1 to Part 4 lists the certifications that must be included in the submission. All information to be provided in an offer is outlined in Part 3 Offer Preparation Instructions.

Q2. Also, there will likely be some upfront costs with developing new clinical rotations for PA students. Do we build those costs into the year one and two costs? I didn't see a place to identify start-up costs.

R2. DND is looking to obtain seats on a university's standard program. If there are rotations that the CAF requires that are not part of the Offeror's current program, the decision to develop those rotations would be the Offerors. It is important to note that the requirement for seats in the near term will be low.

All other terms and conditions remain unchanged.
