QUESTION-2

What specifically is expected by your client on the cable certification, that is, is it expected to be a member of the IACS?

ANSWER-2

No, it's not expected to be a member of the IACS. The certification should be emitted by the manufacturing plan. It is expected to receive the certification confirming the different technical specifications required on section 4.1.1.2 Table of mandatory technical criteria. It should include, but is not limited to: cable diameter, cable type, cable MBS and ASTM standard, lubrication, coating and ASTM standard.
