Amendment number 003 is raised to answer supplier questions:

Q4: On the location we are looking at bidding on we took the fuel amounts found on Annex "A" to use as a basic minimum amount of fuel required for that location. Would that be correct assumption?

A4: The volumes listed at Annex "A" are estimates only. There is no guarantee of any deliveries for fuel at any locations, and actual usage during the standing offer term may be higher or lower. Further information on Standing Offers is found in SACC Clause 2005 (<https://buyandsell.gc.ca/policy-and-guidelines/standard-acquisition-clauses-and-conditions-manual/3/2005/14>)

Q5: If above question is accurate, some locations also are looking for a secondary supplier. If we go to our suppliers and ask them for a minimum amount Fuel found in Annexes "A" they will provide us a price based on the Anticipated Volumes. If we are awarded the secondary supplier the volumes may change and we might not be able to secure the same price from the suppliers for a lower volumes of fuel required for the secondary supplier. In saying that do you have an anticipated or past minimum volumes that the secondary suppliers supplied for each location?

A5: The secondary supplier is only for high volume requirements in the event the first supplier cannot make the delivery. For these locations especially there is no guarantee of minimum, it is only used as a back-up supply. The requirement for back-up supply is a lower volume than the primary supply, and is a separate requirement, and may be priced differently than for the primary supply.

All other terms and conditions of the Request for Standing Offer remain unchanged.
