QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question 1:

I wanted to ask in terms of delivery is it possible that we can bulk ship these signs and stencil that are to be going to a specific province in one bulk shipment to one location to then be distributed from there?

I.e. all NT signs to one location instead of being shipped to each individual location.

Answer 1:

Signs must be shipped as specified in the individual ROC to the delivery point(s) indicated in Annex "C".

Question 2:

Regarding the requirement for "one (1) coating of UltraViolet clear protection on the front;"

We can use UV inks for printing, is this sufficient, or do you need lamination as an extra protective layer?

Answer 2:

Laminated protective layer is required.

Question 3:

It is requested to provide screws. We recommend using standoffs as they are more elegant than screw. Please confirm if they are acceptable?

Answer 3:

Standoff Screws are not acceptable. The sign must be flush against the wall.

Question 4:

There is a mention to "plywood construction (Type B)" in annex A, would you please clarify what is that and if you need us to provide it?

Answer 4:

Type B is the designation for Wood construction in the RCMP. The detachment is a wood frame construction rather than a concrete or Concrete Masonry Unit (CMU) construction. It applies to the method of screws being supplied.

Question 5:

I have engaged with our partners to provide a competitive bid. There is a requirement for delivery of these signs and stencils to the locations provided within the rfp. The majority of the locations are PO boxes and general delivery will not drop packages like these at PO boxes. Is there alternative address or delivery options? Another key note I took away was that no install was required so general delivery to the locations would be the correct method as this is supply only, however; id like to consider us as the installation company and through that method we can have the packages shipped to our branches and we could essentially deploy the techs with the signs to perform the necessary mounting?

Answer 5:

Any specific shipping instructions will be provided in the individual ROC and the Contractor must not ship to locations/individuals other than what is specified.

There is NO installation component.
