Appendix 1.E – STATEMENT OF WORK

Global enterprise solution – domestic electronic security system (DESS)

INTRODUCTION

The purpose of this document is to describe the scope of work for Domestic Electronic Security System (DESS). This document represents a consolidation of the technical and functional requirements for the DESS. The requirements identify the DESS infrastructure, features and functionality needed to support the Canada Economic Development (CED) at all facilities in Canada. Currently, CED has 12 sites within the province of Quebec with non-compatible IDACS solutions. CED has a vision to remedy this issue by defining a single global enterprise solution which would provide auditing and monitoring capabilities at all CED sites from a web base solution. The objective is to continue to provide all CED sites with a consistent and universal technical, functional and operational capacity from a security perspective.

Physical security is the means by which CED implements measures to safeguard employees, assets and information. The foundation for the development of the scope of work is the Royal Canadian Mounted Police \(RCMP\) Guidelines related to protection, detection and response.

While CED has established a series of standards for the definition, design and implementation of physical security strategies, these guidelines provide a well-researched methodology for enhanced architectural, technology and personnel solutions. Citing from G1-025: Protection is achieved with physical, procedural, and psychological barriers to delay or deter unauthorized access. Protective barriers should: deter an attacker, mark the perimeter of a restricted area, delay or prevent access, protect a person or asset from a threat, contain a person or asset from a threat or impede escape.

Detection involves the use of appropriate devices, systems and procedures to signal that an attempted or actual unauthorized access has occurred. There are four steps to detection: notice of the event, conveys information regarding the event to an analysis centre, analyze the information received and evaluate it and if it is deemed that the event is unauthorized, then initiate intervention. In the context of physical security, response entails the implementation of measures to ensure that security incidents are reported to appropriate security officials and immediate and long-term corrective action is taken in a timely fashion. Effective response strategies should be based on the adversaries and their qualities, the ability of the responders to reach the asset or the target and capabilities of the responders. In the contents of this Statement of Requirements, the technical aspects of these key elements of a sound physical security strategy are described.

OBJECTIVES OF CONTRACT

The objective of DESS is to provide CED with a computer-based system with which to protect, defend and respond to actual and potential security and life-safety events and situations affecting its people, assets and information.

BACKGROUND

The objective of the global enterprise solution for the Domestic Electronic Security System (DESS) is to provide the Canada Economic Development (CED) with a computer-based system with which to protect, defend and respond to actual and potential security and life-safety events and situations affecting its people, assets and information.

The context is one of geographic spread of branches and the fact that they are sometimes located in private facilities, sometimes in crown buildings. This fact reinforces the position and the need to implement a centralized access management system for our offices.

SCOPE OF WORK

The global enterprise solution initiative must be scalable to accommodate CCTV in the future. The solution must have a secure web access capability to access from a remote location. An accredited cloud service as per GC standards must be available with data residing in Canada. A redundancy solution will be required. The integration of the new IDACS will be required at 12 sites as indicated in below. CED plans to upgrade those sites in a systematic fashion over the entire duration of the project. At this time, it is expected that such upgrades would occur in fiscal years 22/23. To successfully complete those processes, CED would need to engage the vendor through the utilization of their resources (hardware and software engineers, etc.). Their role would be to assist CED in understanding their system and to finalize the hardware and software platform required for their application, as well as to assist in designing and documenting a network strategy that would fit with CED's environment and allow for the required communications of their devices, such as appliances or cloud or servers. In addition to this, CED would also have a requirement for training on the proposed solution to ensure that the resources are sufficiently knowledgeable on the new product. Training would involve six participants.

SYSTEM DESCRIPTION

Currently CED sites has non-compatible Intrusion Detection Access Control Systems (IDACS):

- Montreal, 800 René Lévesque, West:
 - Kantech / DSC software.
- Gatineau, 165 Hôtel de Ville:

- Regional sites located in Quebec:
 - Local security companies.
