- 1.1 The purpose of this Request for Information (RFI) is to inform and obtain feedback from industry on the procurement process for the Department of National Defence's requirement to procure, integrate and support a Laser Range Finder – Hand Held Thermal Imager – Long Range (LRF HHTI-LR) System. Canada last engaged industry in the winter of 2021 under Tender Notice W8476-226536 where industry was notified of the intent to release a future draft Request for Proposal (RFP).
- 1.2 Public Services and Procurement Canada (PSPC), on behalf of the Department of National Defence (DND) and Innovation Science and Economic Development of Canada (ISED), will use this Request for Information (RFI) to:
 - a) request industry to review and submit feedback on the HHTI LR draft RFP;
 - b) conduct various engagement activities with industry to support the draft RFP process

2. Requirement Overview

- 2.1 The Laser Range Finder – Hand Held Thermal Imager – Long Range (LRF HHTI-LR) is a handheld binocular device with a laser range finder, cooled thermal channel and secondary channel for day and low light conditions. The main component of the LRF HHTI-LR System is the Laser Range Finder Handheld Thermal Imager- Long Range (LRF HHTI-LR). The LRF HHTI-LR is a hand-held binocular device with a Laser Range Finder, cooled Thermal Channel and Secondary Channel for day and low light conditions. It is used by soldiers and sailors to enable the timely detection, recognition and identification of objects of interest under varying conditions of light and visibility. The LRF HHTI-LR System provides a capability for the accurate geolocation of targets, and the onwards transmission of target data to other systems. Imagery produced by the LRF HHTI-LR System can be saved and transferred for analysis. The LRF HHTI-LR System will be used by the Canadian Army in the combat arms leader, sniper, reconnaissance and other similar roles. It will be used by the Royal Canadian Navy to enhance general situational awareness, by boarding parties, and for security surveillance when in port.
- 2.2 The LRF HHTI-LR is supported by a number of other components that are required to provide the full functionality of the system. Other components include batteries, a tripod, various accessories to interface the LRF HHTI-LR to other systems and external power sources, pouches for carriage in the field, and containers for storage and logistic transport. Collectively, the LRF HHTI-LR and associated components are referred to as the LRF HHTI-LR System.
- 2.3 The LRF HHTI-LR System includes bespoke ATAK plug-ins that provide the functionality that supports the interface between the LRF HHTI-LR and the Integrated Soldier System (ISS).
